Peter Genovese Released On $1,000 Bond

An alleged horse betting operation with a daily gross estimated at several thousand dollars was smashed Thursday in almost simultaneous raids by Berrien county, state and Benton Harbor police.

Peter Genovese, 63, route 3, Box 324, Riverside road, Benton Harbor, was charged with violating state gambling laws, a circuit court misdemeanor. He was released under $1,000 bond after being arraigned before Fifth District Court Judge Paul Pollard and he demanded a preliminary hearing.

An envelope containing $20 and some forms were confiscated from the lobby of the Hornack hotel, Territorial road, Benton Harbor, and a large box of suspected gambling paraphernalia was taken from Genovese's home, Berrien county sheriff Forrester (Nick) Jewell said.

Genovese was arrested at his one-story ranch style home. The exact size of the operation, said Jewell, could not be determined, but he estimated several thousands of dollars were involved daily. According to the sheriff, bets covered tracks scattered throughout a wide area.

Jewell said no concrete evidence had been uncovered to link the operation with the syndicate.

EARLIER ARRESTS
Genovese was arrested twice in the 1930's for violation of the prohibition laws and once in 1928. He was sentenced to six months to one year on the 1928 charge. He paid fines totalling $200 and received a 45-day jail sentence for one of the two charges filed in the 1930's.

Jewell said the crackdown came after a seven-month investigation by his department and special undercover agents from the state police.

Jewell and five detectives went to the Genovese house at 2:35 p.m. Five minutes later, chief deputy Don Jewell, the sheriff's brother, and Benton Harbor Police Chief William McClaran hit the suspected drop point in the hotel lobby.

"We may not have hit the biggest," stated Sheriff Jewell. "But we don't intend to stop here. We don't know how many

Polansky Returns Medicaid Payments

Doctor Says He's Been 'Harrassed'

Blue Shield: 'No Impropriety' In $169,000 Fees

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. Sanford Polansky, a Benton Harbor general practitioner, has returned $169,000 paid him in 1968 for treatment of Medicaid patients with a request that he be paid only on "invoices which are supported by . . . complete satisfaction."

Receipt of the check was disclosed today by Blue Shield, which administers the Medicaid program for the state and federal governments.

Blue Shield also released a letter from Dr. Polansky, in which he said:

"I have been subjected to an enormous amount of crank letter harassment, out of context, slanted and distorted and unfair newspaper publicity which is condemnatory of my professional practice.

"The harassment has grossly affected my wife's health and the wellbeing of my family to the point that my receipt of these moneys, though earned and deserved, is simply not worth the retaining.

"I ask you to audit my work for 1968-69 and in any instances where you are not satisfied my records are complete for any reason whatsoever, that you delete all invoices, honoring only those invoices which are supported to your satisfaction by appropriate records in each instance."

Earlier Dr. Polansky said he had reviewed his 1968 records and was "satisfied that the load was so burdensome that history records are incomplete as to medications furnished in some cases."

"We did not know in 1968 that Michigan Blue Shield required or that we would have to produce such a medication record to Blue Shield, after the original 'Claim for Payment' form was filed."

Blue Shield, in notifying the State Department of Social Services of the return of the $169,000, said it was depositing the check in escrow while it continues "our evaluation of Dr. Polansky's practice."

"To date," Blue Shield said, "our evaluation of Dr. Polansky's practice indicates no pattern of impropriety. To our knowledge, no indications have been forthcoming from other analysis."

"It appears that he has in fact rendered a large volume of medical services to eligible beneficiaries in need . . . and not able to get them elsewhere."

"It should also be pointed out that Dr. Polansky's charges for individual services rendered are not only moderate in almost all cases, but are below average charges in many significant cases."

Dr. Polansky's $169,000 income in 1968 from Medicaid was disclosed in a report by Blue Shield to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of all physicians who had received more than $25,000 from Medicaid in 1968.

There were 13 in Michigan who topped $100,000 and 42 above the $25,000 figure. Blue Shield said, however, some of those grossing more than $100,000 represented a team which shared fees, although they were paid to only one member.

Blue Shield said it was "satisfied that the load was so burdensome that history records are incomplete as to medications furnished in some cases."

House May Still Adopt Senate Bill

Voluntary Tax Deductions Might Be Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—House leaders, blocked in an initial effort to rush through a Senate-passed bill extending the 10 per cent surtax through Dec. 31, are hoping to get the measure to the White House early next week.

All 100 members showed up Thursday as the Senate approved the six-month extension, overriding the plea of President Nixon that a full year continuance is necessary to dampen inflation.

An attempt to complete action on the bill in the House Thursday night before the surtax withholding rates expired was stymied when objections were raised, forcing Democratic leaders to put off voting until Monday.

Even though the surtax officially died June 30 and the withholding rates expired at midnight, Treasury officials were expected to urge all employers to keep taking the levy out of employee's paychecks since both houses of Congress have passed surtax extension bills.

The House voted a month ago for the full year's extension but in a different bill than the one passed by the Senate.

The Senate measure presents the issue to the House in a form which offers six months or nothing.

The reason is that the Senate added the surtax amendment as a rider on a House-passed unemployment compensation tax bill.

Senate leaders were hopeful the House simply would adopt this amendment and thus clear the bill to Nixon.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, indicated he probably would follow this course but could not do so until Monday.

Meanwhile, the House committee in wrapping up the drafting of a broad tax reform bill took steps to see that the surcharge is eventually extended the full year. The committee added a provision that the surtax continue at 5 per cent for the first half of 1970—just as the earlier House bill and the administration proposed.

Senate voting on the extension bill came after four hours of (See back page, sec. 1, col. 6)

Cool House Is Target Of Thieves

NILES — Although three dogs barked loudly outside, the noise of a bedroom air conditioning unit prevented occupants of a Cass county home near here from hearing the sound of burglars who entered the home, stole several items and escaped in the family auto.

The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Greenway, told Cass county sheriff's officers they discovered the burglary when they got up shortly before 5 a.m. today. The Greenway residence is at 3206 May street in Milton township.

Officers said the family told them no sounds were heard downstairs, probably because of the noise of the air conditioning unit in an upstairs bedroom where the couple were asleep. A nearby resident told officers that three dogs outside were barking "loud enough to wake up the dead" during the night.

Officers said entry was gained by raising a downstairs window and that the burglars left through the front door.

Keys to the family auto were reported taken from a purse. The auto was described as a 1968 Pontiac four door sedan.

Other items reported taken included two rifles, a sewing machine, a portable stereo recorder, a player, assorted men's clothing, about $6 in cash and several credit cards.

Ypsilanti Man Held By Police

Faces Murder Charge In Latest Death

By KIT KINCADE
Associated Press Writer
ANN ARBOR (AP)—The arrest of a 23-year-old man in the brutal slaying of Karen Sue Beineman, one of eight young women found slain in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in the last two years was announced today. Miss Beineman was the seventh unsolved killing.

Col. Fredrick Davids, state police director, identified the man held as John Norman Collins of Ypsilanti and said he "looks like the composite sketch" of the motorcyclist last seen with Miss Beineman.

The Eastern Michigan University coed vanished July 23 and was found last Saturday in a rural roadside ravine, strangled and her face battered beyond recognition. She was 18 and had enrolled as a freshman last June.

Three others among the eight victims also were Eastern Michigan coeds. Three also were from the University of Michigan at nearby Ann Arbor. One was a high school dropout and another a junior high school student.

Until today, authorities claimed a solution in only one death—that of Margaret Phillips, a University of Michigan coed found mortally wounded in her off-campus apartment last July 5. A man is held on a murder count in that.

NEPHEW OF OFFICER
Collins is a nephew of Cpl. David Leik of the Ypsilanti State Police Post and Davids said it was a report from Leik that his house had been "disturbed" that led to Collins' arrest.

Collins had access to Leik's home, while the latter was on vacation, and had been feeding the corporal's dog while he was gone. Leik returned from vacation two days ago.

Davids refused to say how Leik's home had been "disturbed," saying that involved evidence and he did not want to prejudice the case.

Davids also said Collins "had access to motorcycles" and had been under surveillance even before Miss Beineman's body was discovered.

SLAYINGS RELATED?
Some law enforcement officers have expressed belief at least some of the unsolved slayings are related, although there is no proof of this.

Davids said Collins would be arraigned today on a first-degree murder charge in Miss Beineman's death and disclosed he was arrested Thursday night at the State Police Crime Laboratory in nearby Plymouth, where Collins was being questioned in the presence of his attorney.

Collins was not present at the news conference.

Davids said Collins completed his third year at Eastern Michigan University here in June, but did not enroll for the summer session and so far as he knew was unemployed.

The announcement of Collins' arrest came as authorities check on reports that four Eastern Michigan coeds may have turned down rides with a young motorcyclist before Miss Beineman accepted and was never seen alive again.

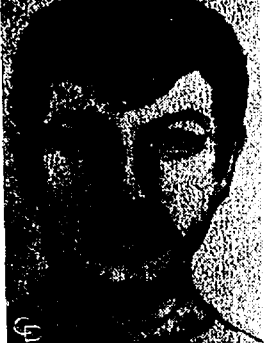

The unidentified girls reportedly described to police a young, slender man who tried to persuade the girls to take a

Crash Kills SJ Factory Executive

Industrial Rubber Gen. Manager Dies

Larry Bantham, general manager of the Industrial Rubber Goods Co., St. Joseph, died early Thursday from injuries received in a one-car accident outside Tyler, Tex. He was on a business trip to Texas when the accident happened.

Texas state highway patrolmen said the accident occurred when a rental car Mr. Bantham was driving ran off Interstate highway 20 and crashed into a guardrail shortly before midnight. He died a few hours later in a Tyler hospital. We was alone at the time of the crash.

Mr. Bantham has been general manager of the Industrial Rubber Goods Co., division of Ball Brothers, since 1966. Before being promoted to the position, he was factories manager. He left the General Tire Co., Wabash, Ind., to join the company in 1960.

The Industrial Rubber Goods sportsman club's annual picnic has been postponed because of the death and announcement of a new date was to be made later.

Mr. Bantham was born Dec. 21, 1921, in Wabash, Ind., the son of Lawrence, Sr., and Stella E. (David) Bantham.

He was a member of the Masons and the Elks, a veteran of World War II and a member of the First Christian church of Wabash.

He and his wife, the former Miss Vivian Shamburger of Tyler, Tex., resided at Route 6, Dowagiac.

Survivors include his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Robert (Sue) Bretland of Edmonds, Wash., Mrs. Dale (Sally) Berg of Albuquerque, N.M., and Peggy at home; and his father, Lawrence Bantham, Sr., of Wabash, Ind.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. (EDT) in the Jones funeral home, Wabash. Burial will be in the Salls cemetery, Wabash.

Kopechne Inquest Is Sought

Official Tries To Reopen Kennedy Case

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis has applied for an inquest into the drowning of a girl secretary in a car accident involving Sen. Edward M. Kennedy—and has drawn a rebuke from the judge who will rule on the request.

Dinis said Thursday he had sent the application to Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of the state Superior Court.

Declaring that the first he heard about it was from the press, Justice Tauro described the timing of the announcement as "bad judgment at the very least" and said: "I can't comment on it until I receive it. I'll have plenty of comment at the right time."

Dinis is district attorney for the Southern District, which includes the Martha's Vineyard area where the drowning occurred July 18. Until now, he had stayed clear of the investigation, which led to a charge against Kennedy of leaving the scene of the accident, fatal to Miss Mary Jo Kopechne, 28.

NOT KENNEDY MAN
Like the senator, Dinis is a Democrat. But he is not regarded as a member of the party's dominant Kennedy wing. He ran unsuccessfully for Congress last year.

In his letter to Justice Tauro asking for the inquest, Dinis said:

"This inquest will concern the death of one Miss Mary Jo Kopechne, of Washington, D.C., who supposedly died by external means on or about July 18, 1969."

Ordinarily inquests are conducted before District Court judges. Dinis did not explain why he asked for a Superior Court judge to hold this one.

Prisoner Escapes By Hijacking Liner

MIAMI (AP)—A prisoner under escort by two federal officers carried out a bizarre bid for freedom Thursday by pressing a razor blade to the throat of a teen-age stewardess and hijacking a jetliner with 131 persons aboard to Cuba.

Trans World Airlines officials said they were unaware of the passenger identified on their rolls as "L. Perry" was a prisoner until after he left the Boeing 727 at Havana's Jose Marti Airport.

In Pennsylvania, authorities said Lester Perry, 32, boarded an aircraft in Seanton with two federal officers who were escorting him to a California prison. They changed to TWA in Pittsburgh.

U.S. Marshal William Lavin and a prison guard, Joseph Hart, were not available for comment when the plane returned to the United States. The hijacking developed over Tulsa, Okla., as the jet flew westward on Flight 79 from Pennsylvania to Los Angeles. Stewardess Deborah Sullivan was the first to come in touch with the hijacker.

"He put a razor blade to my throat and told me to go into the cockpit," the 19-year-old red-haired stewardess said in Miami.

She said the hijacker also had picked up a wine bottle and held it and the blade, still pressed to her neck, for more than an hour as the jet flew south to the Gulf of Mexico and then to Cuba.

Thursday's hijacking was the 37th time this year an aircraft has been diverted to Cuba. There have been seven unsuccessful attempts.

Nixon Puts A New Wiggle In The Olive Branch

For security reasons and to provide the enemy with as little propaganda ammunition as possible, the major candidates in the 1968 Presidential campaign steered clear of discussing Vietnam's strategy or lack of it.

George Wallace pursued a white supremacy line which, though muted, was unmistakably clear to all voters.

Hubert Humphrey dwelt upon the Great Society's accomplishments and how they might be increased under his direction.

Richard Nixon pounded repetitiously on law and order and the fulfillment of an American dream at half the cost the outgoing Administration would charge for it.

Though crime and inflation weighed heavily on the public's mind, Viet Nam, the silent issue, controlled the outcome.

Humphrey started his campaign with this handicapping legacy from LBJ's commitment and never could shed it sufficiently to overtake Nixon's pre-convention lead in the public opinion.

Nixon very nearly lost his edge by avoiding what every political instinct told him could kayo Humphrey with a single speech.

What few comments Humphrey and Nixon did drop about the war were indirect. Humphrey probably came closer to head knocking on the issue with a few last minutes speeches hinting that LBJ might have guessed wrong. This planned inference that he had turned dove failed to erode sufficiently against Nixon whom the public had tabbed as a hawk.

This fencing at home did not perturb the enemy.

His delegation to the Paris peace talks deliberately stalled on trivial matters until North Hanoi could get the election returns and then decide if the winner would approach the war any differently than Johnson was conducting it.

To date Nixon's generalship has not differed basically from LBJ's.

The bombing moratorium on Hanoi instituted by Johnson 11 months ago remains in effect and a steady ground pressure against the enemy continues.

The current diminution in the ground activity is the puzzle in this stalemate type of fighting.

Nixon's recent announcement on withdrawing five per cent of our forces and his statements during this week's stopover in Saigon tend to support Mike Mansfield's opinion that the war might drift to a halt as did several Indian campaigns following the Civil War. Everybody withdraw to his encampment without sitting down to smoke a peace pipe.

We are assuming Nixon would not have announced the troop withdrawal without feeling reasonably assured the South Vietnamese are now attaining the capability gradually to defend themselves.

The two significant remarks in his Saigon speeches support the Senate Majority leader's hunch. Said Nixon:

"We have gone as far as we can or should go in opening the door to negotiations which would bring peace."

"It is time to end the war, but to bring an end to the war in a way which will not encourage another war."

Read separately or together, their meaning differs in no respect from what Johnson said on many occasions.

The difference is their inflection and possibly the change in circumstances.

They amount to a "make me an offer" remark between two private parties bogged down in an everyday business deal. Neither feels he should give ground, but is willing to explore sliding along their dividing line.

Secondly, Nixon's statements follow one made earlier in the week by Gen. Earl Wheeler, chairman of the Armed Services staff.

Wheeler commented that peace talks remain in the debating stage because the enemy has shown no willingness to apply a political implementation to a settlement.

One implication from that circumspet statement is that the enemy may be hurting militarily much more than is understood here at home, but feels it degrading to make any gesture at Paris which could be interpreted in the slightest as "crying uncle."

There is reasonable evidence to feel this condition held before Johnson departed the White House.

His offer, though, "to talk peace at any time in any place" possibly fell down because the enemy views him, not John F. Kennedy, as the man who started slugging first.

Johnson's successor, in this instance Nixon though it would be equally valid if Humphrey had won the election, to some extent is free from that image.

What he says, even if its fundamentals do not vary from those of his predecessor, can have a different registry with the listener.

In our domestic political affairs, a Republican and a Democrat differ noticeably in their handling of affairs despite their published intentions may duplicate one another.

Although this partisan analogy is too parochial to break the Viet Nam deadlock, Nixon is trying to tell the enemy that he and ourselves can do business.

Effectively this is how the Korean reached the armistice situation prevailing for the past 16 years at the 38th parallel.

The North Koreans accepted Eisenhower's proposal which Truman had been offering all along for reasons closely parallel to those prevailing today.

He did not solve Korea permanently, but at least he stilled the sabre rattling.

Maybe Nixon can do a repeat performance.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is perturbed at what he claims is the failure of Congress to adhere to his spending recommendations. He claims — and blames Congress for — adding $1 billion to the $3.5 billion growth of his budget for fiscal 1970.

In any event, in order to redress the additional imbalance, Mr. Nixon has ordered the government departments and agencies to offset this $3.5 billion in projected spending. Significantly, more than half of the reduction will be achieved by cutting military spending not associated with the Vietnam war.

It is only through this means that the President can hope to stay within the spending limits imposed upon him by Congress at the time they grudgingly agreed to increase the allowable government debt ceiling.

BORN TODAY

Herman Melville's contemporaries did not appreciate his greatest work, "Moby Dick Or the Whale," but that masterpiece, an epic of a literal and metaphysical quest, remains on the list of any great books in the English language.

Melville was raised in an atmosphere of financial instability and genteel pretense death of his father in 1832, he tried several jobs to help the family, among them clerking in a bank, school teaching and going to sea. It was this last job that provided him with the material for his fourth novel, "Redburn."

On his next voyage, he sailed for the South Seas, where he deserted his ship and took refuge among the cannibalistic Tynes. Escaping from this imprisonment, he became involved in a mutiny, worked in Hawaii, and finally sailed home with the navy in 1844.

Melville now began to read widely to broaden his knowledge of the world's literature. Intoxicated by metaphysics, Melville was no longer content with the simple aims of his earlier books.

In "Mardi," he makes real use of a questing hero and a consciously symbolic level of meaning.

Traveling to England, he arranged for the English publication of his books. In 1851 he completed "Moby Dick" but the reception from critics was not favorable.

He supported his family during the 1850s by farming and writing stories for magazines. Among these are "Bartleby and Schriener" and "Benito Cereno." He also wrote a serialized novel. His last prose, until his final years, was the cynical novel, "The Confidence Man."

Unnoticed by the literary public, he turned to writing poetry. It wasn't until the 1920s that the "man who had lived with cannibals" began to be recognized as one of the great of American writers.

DR. COLEMAN

..And Speaking Of Your Health

Eight years ago I contracted gonorrhea and was treated early and intensively with drugs. I have not had any other venereal disease. I am now contemplating marriage at the age of 29 and am deeply concerned that I might still transmit disease to my wife. How can I be sure that there is no danger of this?

Mr. H. H., California
Dear Mr. H.: I have written repeatedly about the growing venereal disease and the need for it being stemmed by proper education of the Dr. Coleman young.

Your story is not unlike many that are told to doctors everywhere. Within the framework of your letter is a special kind of morality that I admire. Sometimes the obligation one must feel to a new wife is overlooked. One of the legal safeguards against transmission of disease is that all people have a premarital physical examination and blood study for syphilis. A marriage license should not be issued to anyone who has active, transmissible syphilis.

The likelihood is that you no longer have any trace of that gonorrheal infection, especially since it was treated early and forcefully. Nevertheless, there are smears and cultures which can readily tell if the germ, the gonococcus, is still active in your system. Your doctor, of course, will give you complete clearance and assure you that in the absence of the germ, there is little or no chance of transmitting such an infection to your wife.

I must point out that young men and young women take this infection too lightly. It is not "like a cold," as they would like to believe. Sterility, especially in women whose tubes and ovaries have been infected, is a common and sad result of gonorrhea.

A surgeon has recommended an operation for a hernia which I have had for thirty years. I have worn a truss and the hernia seems only a little larger than it ever was. Do surgeons always suggest surgery for such a condition?

Mr. T.J.R., North Carolina
Dear Mr. R.: No, surgeons do not always favor an operation when the specific need does not exist. There are special reasons why an operation may be necessary even after such a long period of time during which your hernia was no cause of difficulty. Many times a simple hernia may remain untroublesome and then suddenly grow larger and become complicated. Perhaps this occurred in your case.

One of the most difficult social problems is the trust that is lacking between human beings. As a surgeon, I have for years been aware that some patients can never be impressed by the honesty and integrity of the people who surround them. My own experience has been that this distrust is a greater reflection on the "distrustor" than on the "distrustee."

Please do not let your own distrust of a doctor's integrity lead you into the possibility of converting a simple operation into a complicated one. In a mature, not a suspicious way, you can, through your own doctor, get an additional opinion from another source.

Contract Bridge

You have the following hand, both sides vulnerable:

♠AKJ3 ♥KJ852 ♦7 ♣AQ4

1. You are the dealer. Wh at you bid?
2. Your right-hand opponent opens One Diamond, which you double, and your left-hand opponent bids Three Diamonds. After two passes, what would you bid now?
3. You deal and bid One Heart; partner responds One Spade. What would you bid now?
4. You deal and bid One Heart; partner responds Two Clubs. When you then bid Two Spades, partner responds Three Diamonds. What would you bid now?
5. Your right-hand opponent opens Three Diamonds, which you double. Your partner responds There Notrump. What would you bid now?

1. One Heart. This is essentially a suit type of hand and your first goal should be to find the best trump suit. The intention is to bid spades next, and partner will thus learn that the hearts are longer than the spades, since they were bid first. In choosing an opening bid, length of suit generally takes precedence over strength of suit.
2. Double. This is still a takeout double, even though you doubled on the previous round.

3. Four Spades. This is by no means a closeout bid. The jump to game tells partner that even though his spade response may have been based on only 6 points, game is still highly probable. By inference, therefore, the jump announces at least 20 points, distributional or otherwise, and hence constitutes a slam try.

4. Five Clubs. Having indicated five hearts and four spades, you can now show the excellent club support and the singleton diamond by jumping to five. It would be wrong to bid three notrump. This would be correct if the queen of clubs were the queen of diamonds, but this one-card change probably makes all the difference between an ice-cold slam and just a game.

5. Pass. You have no choice but to accept partner's judgment that notrump is the right spot. Partner presumably knows you are angling for a suit when you doubled, and it would be dead wrong to start groping now for a better place to play the hand.

Try And Stop Me

In his new book "Golfman-ship," Stephen Potter claims acquaintance with one duffer who is so afflicted with a sense of doom about his playing that he cries piteously, "Oh, what a fool I am!" in the middle of every downswing—with results too appalling to contemplate.

I myself once enjoyed foisting with a man who not only managed miraculously to play worse than I did, but also walloped the back of his neck with his club every time he used a wood. He finally had to quit playing entirely. His neck gave out.

A disillusioning evening in the life of the late Dashiell Hammett, author of "The Maltese Falcon," came when he dined at the home of one of the most glamorous movie queens of the silent era, Miss Jean Harlow. The surrounding were elegant, the English butler impeccable—until Miss Harlow summoned him to order, "Open the window, James, and leave in a tiny air."

In a home where the dove of peace rarely fluttered, an angry mother threatened her teen-ago daughter, "Just you wait till your father comes home." So she waited—and by the time he came home she was forty-two years old.

'DON'T LET PUNKS WIN,' McCLARAN STATES

American Motors Honors Sand Dune Savers

SKEPTICS: Dan Pjesky (left) and Al Boettcher (right) aren't convinced by the antics of four has-beens contesting which was the greatest Benton Harbor high school football team—1929 or 1943. Pjesky and Boettcher know that honor goes to 1941, their team. Bob Garey and John McPike ('43) are ready to rush center Bruce Collis and Bob Frakes of the '29 team. Ready to step off a penalty against Garey is John Kinney president of the high school alumni association. The question of the best all-time team is slated to be resolved at the Aug. 23 event at Holiday Inn. (Staff photo).

Old Tiger Teams Have Showdown

Alumni Banquet Will Be Scene Of Grid Debate

Three Benton Harbor high school football teams that were acclaimed as state champions will have it out Saturday, Aug. 23, at the annual alumni banquet.

"Which was the greatest football team of all time?" is scheduled to be resolved that night. The contestants are 1929 coached by Wally Weber; 1941 coached by Carlton Roels, and 1943, also led by Roels.

There won't be any arguments from teams of more recent generations because the reunion traditionally is for classes that have been out of school 25 years and more.

Weber and Roels are slated to take part in the deliberations. Two other big names in Tiger history also will attend—Bill Orwig, now Indiana U. athletic director and BHHS coach of the 1930s, and Jack Smith, former BHHS athletic director.

The team of 1941 has a strong talking point as the most talented athletic class. Seniors on the '41 football team also starred on the 1942 state basketball and track championship teams as Benton Harbor swept every major title in the school year of '41-42.

Dick Peters will be master of ceremonies for the banquet at Holiday Inn. The event starts with class hospitality rooms at

Woman Held In Shooting

SOUTH HAVEN — Lullabelle Hamilton, 46, of route 2, Grand Junction, was to be arraigned in Seventh district court, South Haven, this afternoon on an assault charge.

She was arrested Thursday morning by Van Buren county sheriff's deputies following the shooting of Willie Sutton, 30, of route 2, Grand Junction, at his home. Sutton was taken to South Haven Community hospital for treatment of a shotgun wound of the left foot.

Grand Mere Club Wins $500 Award

Executive Emphasizes Need For Conservation

Presentation of a $500 award and a plaque signifying the fight waged by area conservationists to preserve Grand Mere highlighted the annual meeting of the Grand Mere association last night.

Fred M. G. Lehm, Chicago zone manager for American Motors Corp. made the presentation at the meeting in the Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library at St. Joseph.

Said Lehm: "This program, which was started 16 years ago by the late George W. Mason, (first president of American Motors) is a recognition of certain basic truths:

"One of these is that in our world the motor car is not only a transportation necessity, it is also a recreational necessity — a means for men and women to get away from crowded urban areas into mountains, and forests and seashore areas where they can literally recreate their bodies and perhaps more importantly, their minds and souls.

"INSPIRES OTHERS"

"A second truth is that while recognition of dedicated effort may not be the primary reward for those whose efforts in themselves are satisfying, it strongly serves to inspire others. As our population increased in density, the pressure on our resources will mount accordingly.

"A nation's prosperity," Lehm said, "can only be based on a nation's natural wealth: on its food producing top soil, on its ample supplies of unpolluted water, on its soil-building, water-storing forests and rangelands.

Egg Toss Costs Boys Jail, Fine

Two teenagers arrested after dozens of cars were pelted with eggs Wednesday night pleaded guilty to a charge of malicious destruction of property and were sentenced yesterday.

Douglas L. Kolb, 17, 245 Western avenue, St. Joseph township, and Mark D. Rohm, 17, route 2, Miners road, St. Joseph, were fined a total of $68 and sentenced to six days in jail to be served on the weekends.

The two appeared before St. Joseph district court Judge Harry Laity.

A 16-year-old youth arrested with Kolb and Rohm was assigned to juvenile court.

The trio were arrested by St. Joseph police shortly after an egg-throwing spree in which more than 40 cars in south St. Joseph and Berrien county were hit.

Group Plans Fund Drive

The Young Mens Improvement Association of Benton Harbor, has announced that it will be raising funds to build statues of the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King and Malcolm X, somewhere in downtown Benton Harbor, according to James Alexander of Benton Harbor, president of the association.

Members of the association will be holding a meeting Sunday at 2 p.m. at 211 South Hull, Benton Harbor, to formally organize plans for funding of the statues.

"Because these groups successfully thwarted proposed sandmining operations which would have destroyed the inherent natural beauty of Grand Mere.

"LAND PURCHASED"

"Because the organization, through personal contributions and other fund-raising activities, purchased 22 acres in Grand Mere to assure that they will not be despoiled, and continues to work toward the preservation of the area."

"Because in these and other ways it has demonstrated the finest traditions of conservation in the United States." The award was accepted by Joe Ray, president of the Grand Mere association.

Mrs. F. V. Cupp, who submitted the original application that led to the award, noted that the Grand Mere association was the first Michigan conservation group to be so honored.

The meeting included showing slides of Grand Mere and the 22-acre preserve the association purchased.

New directors elected at the annual meeting were Mrs. Albert Braza and Don Golloway. Re-elected were C. R. Csapo, Rev. George Horst, Ray and Mrs. Thomas Watts.

Screams Prevent Burglary

A would-be burglar was scared off early this morning before he could get inside a Benton Harbor home, Benton Harbor police reported.

Susan Thiem, 505 Catalpa avenue, Benton Harbor, told police she was upstairs when she heard a window being raised. As she went downstairs she saw part of a man's shoulder and a hand inside the window, she said.

She screamed, and the man fled, she said. Police said a window screen had been cut.

Benton Harbor police also received two other burglary reports early this morning.

RECORD PLAYER STOLEN
James Henderson, 396 Brunson street, Benton Harbor, told police that a brief case and record player were stolen from his home. Apparently a window had been broken to enter the house, police said.

A man's suit was reported missing from the home of Terry Langford, 647 East High street, Benton Harbor. Police are investigating the method of entry.

Also this morning, two persons reported that all four tires on their cars were slashed at about 2:50 a.m. Willie Pratcher, 370 Cedar street, Benton Harbor, and Keith Connor, 323 Ross street, about one block away, told police that they woke up to the sound of hissing tires. The tires were cut with a sharp object, police said.

Berrien county sheriff's deputies reported that the home of Mrs. Ruth Nelson, Berrien Springs, was broken into sometime this week. Two television sets and an antique lamp, valued at a total of $350, were reported stolen. A back door had been pried open, police said.

Berrien county sheriff's deputies were investigating two more burglaries this morning. The Twin Cities D-X Oil Co., Riverside road, Benton township, and the Lakeshore Body Shop, Stevensville, reported this morning that their buildings had been broken into. Loot, if any, was not known immediately.

Douglas Van Fossen, 457 Division street, Benton Harbor, reported the theft of $206, primarily in change, from his closet yesterday, Benton Harbor police said.

Hubs and wheel covers valued at $200 were reported stolen from two cars in the Ray Clark's Used Car Sales lot, 1127 Main street, St. Joseph.

Chief Asks Support Of BH Schools

Vote For The 'Good Kids' In Aug. 11 Election

EDITOR'S NOTE: The citizens advisory committee of the Benton Harbor school district has asked community leaders for comments on the status of education here. In this statement, Police Chief William B. McClaran tells what he considers are the consequences of failure to support education. The District will vote Aug. 11 on the 3.5 mills in operating taxes — a two mill reduction from a proposal defeated in June.

If we fail to support education, we are inviting chaos to our community. Your children and mine will suffer. The total community will suffer in reduced opportunity and property values. No business likes to expand where the schools are subpar.

Elementary music, art and physical education are not frills. Music in the grade school imparts the discipline and the pride that makes possible the state's best high school marching band. Many a child has found self-expression in art that is denied in the home. Physical education is the most wholesome outlet for the energy of young bodies — throwing a baseball is a greater accomplishment than throwing a rock.

We are disgusted and sickened by vandalism against our schools — fires, broken windows, flooding. But if we vote "No" on August 11, we are conceding that the punks have won. We will be taking punitive action against every "good kid" in our school district because we will be denying him the right to a balanced education.

The schools also are the only hope for the maladjusted youngsters. When the home breaks down, only the schools offer a second chance.

An inferior education program that is conducive to disorder affects the total community. The school administration has been asked to rectify conditions that produce a breakdown in line and lower morale. It cannot do so without the means.

We hear every day how bad Benton Harbor is. Our faults are well publicized and even exploited. But we've got a lot going here toward solution of socio-economic problems. The schools are the foundation on which these problems can be solved.

A "Yes" vote will shore up that foundation while a "No" vote may cause irreparable damage. I don't believe this district can stand back in its educational program. This will harm thousands of youngsters and intensify the migration of professional people out of the community.

William B. McClaran.

TRAFFIC LIGHT GOES UP: A traffic light was scheduled to be put into operation today or Saturday at the latest at Fair and Highland avenue on Benton Harbor's city limits, ending a four-year struggle for it. FUNDS FOR OSTEOPATH COLLEGE ARE VETOED

Girls, Boys Operate Service Station

Hartford Family Pitches In

Pretty Faces At Gas Pump

By SANDRA DRAKE
Staff Writer

HARTFORD — The last excuse for being late that the seven children in the Jack and Vivian DeMorrow family can use is that they ran out of gas.

The three teenage girls, Sue DeMorrow, 17, and stepsisters Beverly Newland, 19, and Merry Newland, 18, manage and operate the Sunoco service station at Hartford. They opened for business last Friday.

EVERYBODY HELPS

Making the whole venture a family affair, the girls are joined by the rest of the family, Jerry, 15, Kenneth, 14, David, 13 and Keith, 11, who do ground maintenance work around the station.

Mr. and Mrs. DeMorrow add to the ranks. They hold leases on the Sunoco and the Gulf stations in Hartford and supervise the training of the girls.

Started expressly for the purpose of giving the girls jobs, Mrs. DeMorrow said the station idea came about because in a town as small as Hartford (2,300 population) there weren't enough jobs for girls.

"Besides, the girls are all very capable and efficient and, it's different," she added.

Beverly, the manager, who works from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., spent last year as a freshman at Central Michigan university and plans on taking classes at Lake Michigan college part time this fall so she can continue managing the station.

She said the girls can do light repair work and maintenance. "We can do grease jobs, oil changes, fix fan belts, change tires and do larger repairs. We'll call Dad at the Gulf station," she stated.

Jack DeMorrow gave each of the girls training in minor repair work and the three sisters spent almost six months under his supervision at the family's Gulf station.

Two of the girl attendants, Linda Bulat, 17, and Mona Brookfield, 18, both of Hartford, hold other jobs and work at the gas station for extra money.

GOING TO COLLEGE

Linda, who works at the drug store in Hartford, said she needed the money so she could start college this fall. She'll be a freshman at Central Michigan university.

Mona, who's used to being around cars because her dad, Robert, is an automobile dealer, also works on the summer school migrant program. She'll enter Southwestern Michigan college in September. All the girls graduated from Hartford high school.

"Business has been real good so far," Beverly said. "The station was closed months at a time before we got here so considering this is the first week of operation, everything is great."

Sunoco's district manager, John Marzoff, told the DeMorrow's the idea was tremendous. The oil company is putting in a snack bar for the girls to operate at the station.

The company also is sending Beverly to Detroit in August for a two-week managerial training session. Her mother is helping her with the books until then.

Merry says that most of the male customers just laugh when they see a teenage girl come to wait on them. "Most of the women in town keep coming back. I guess they're impressed because we give the exterior of their car real good service."

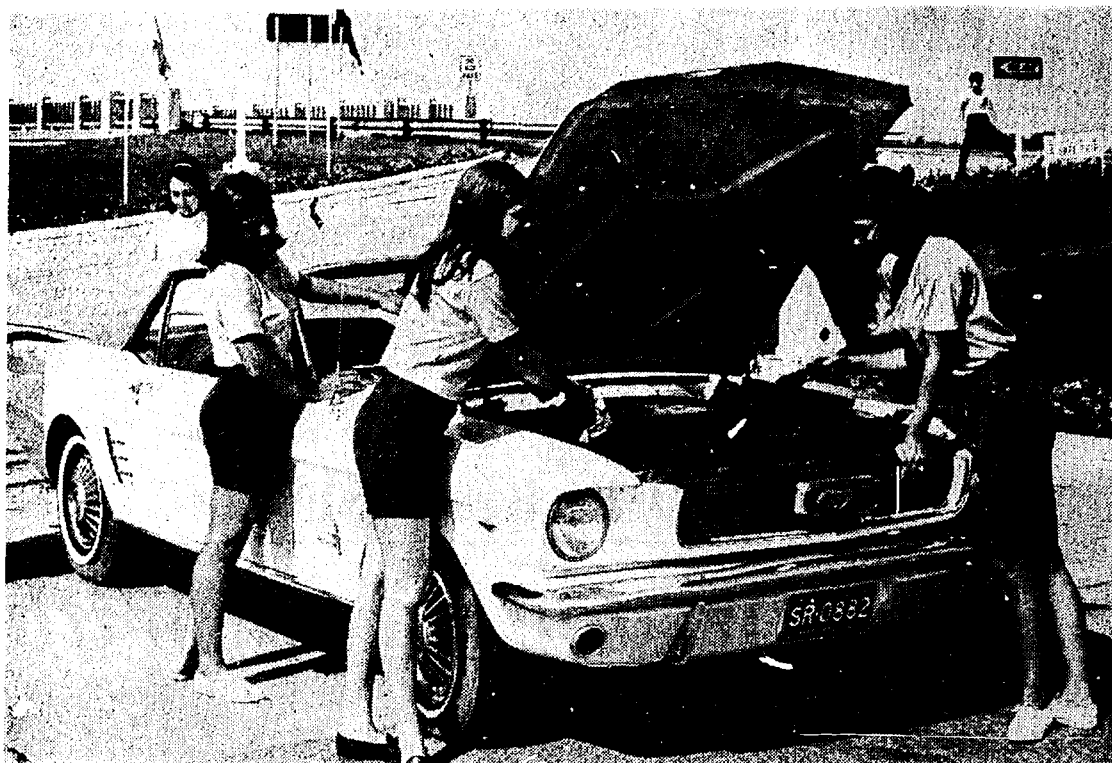

"Of course the older folks are a little surprised at first," she said.

NOT MONOTONOUS

Working at the station is pretty much of a departure from regular female work, Linda said. "It's not monotonous and we get a chance to meet people from all over the state."

The girls, who start out at $1 an hour, are joined by John Anthony, 18, who works from 6 p.m. to midnight. "We have my husky oldest son here during the day in case there's a problem," Mrs. DeMorrow said.

All the girls agree that the job is fun. They pitched in this month and cleaned the station, painted curbs, and washed windows.

The girls plan on sticking with the job even through the school year.

"We're going to try and handle a unique operation here," Beverly said. Plans are under way for a fruit stand to be built at the station by Hilltop Orchard fruit growers of Hartford.

"These kids just don't know when to quit," Mrs. DeMorrow said. "My girls will go home and help with supper and house

Women Disrupt Classroom

WARREN (AP) — Nine young women were arrested Thursday after they allegedly burst into a Macomb County Community College classroom shouting obscenities and harassed students taking a final exam.

The women, ranging in age from 18 to 23, were distributing literature for women's rights and Students for a Democratic Society to the 30 students in the class, according to Del Corey, administrative assistant to the dean.

The pamphlets bore such slogans as "Women rise up" and "Bring the war home."

STUDENT BITTEN

Police said the women entered the room shouting and blocked the door. One student said he was pushed into a chair and hit in the face a few times, while another said he was shoved against a wall and bitten.

"One girl went on a long harangue regarding atrocities in Vietnam and women's rights," Corey said. "She used the four-letter word which is most famous—regularly."

"I asked them to leave and they refused," he added. "Then, three minutes later they left singing, 'Work hard, study hard, get ahead and kill.'"

Warren police, called by the campus security guard, arrested the women as they got into a green van parked in a school parking lot.

All nine pleaded not guilty before Warren District Judge Roy N. Gruenberg and requested jury trials.

FREE ON BOND

Charged with being disorderly persons and released on $500 bond were Rachel Bishop, 23; Ellen Borison, 18; Lynn Ray Garvin, 19; and Karen Selin, 21, all of Ann Arbor.

Also charged with being disorderly but free on $1,000 personal bonds are Elizabeth Gilbert, 18 of Farmington; Ann Marie Hathaway, 22, of Detroit; Leonore Kalon, 21, of Ann Arbor; and Karen Latimer, 22, of East Lansing.

Purple Heart Day Proclaimed

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed Aug. 7 as Purple Heart Day in Michigan, noting that on that date in 1782, Gen. George Washington established what is now the oldest decoration of U.S. armed forces: Milliken said that Washington, in creating the medal, said "The road to glory is a free country and a patriot army is thus open to all."

No Decision Is Reached On Capitol

Host Of Bills Signed, Rejected By Gov. Milliken

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has vetoed a $242,000 appropriation to establish a Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine.

At the same time, the governor was reported to have had second thoughts about a $4 million appropriation for planning and initial construction of a new State Capitol.

The governor was expected to approve the $51.6 million capital outlay bill on Thursday. It includes the planning and construction grant for the Capitol. But he declined to take action, apparently to further consider the matter, sources said.

He has until Aug. 8 to act on the matter.

Milliken also rejected a $100,000 appropriation for a hook-up between three educational television stations, permitting them to air each other's programs.

Milliken turned thumbs down on the proposal, he said, because he would like to have the hook-up include more of the state's educational television stations.

"I intend to sign (the bill) establishing a School of Osteopathy to be located on an existing campus of a state university with an existing school or college of medicine as determined by the State Board of Education," the governor said.

"However," he added, "the assignment of the school of osteopathy, the acceptance by the board of control of the designated university and the development of program plans will require a considerable period of time and it is unlikely that such a program will be under way during the current fiscal year."

The osteopathic college and the educational television hook-up appropriations were included in the $293.3 million higher education bill.

Milliken used his powers to eliminate specific items before approving the higher education measure.

SIGNED INTO LAW

He also signed into law a measure authorizing expenditures of $56.3 million for general government operation, including the legislature, judiciary, executive office, and the offices of the attorney general, secretary of state, treasury, administrations, civil services and civil rights.

He also vetoed a bill to raise the filing fee from $4 to $25 in Detroit common pleas court civil actions. The additional $125 was to be credited to the courts' bailiffs' retirement fund.

Other bills signed by Milliken would:

- Amend election laws to require the wording of any ballot proposition to be such that a "yes" vote would be in favor of the proposal.
- Change the name of county boards of supervisors to commissioners.
- Prohibit operation of a

Robbers Get $394 In Berrien, Cass

Tavern Patrons Are Forced To Give Up Wallets

Two taverns 10 miles apart in Berrien and Cass counties were robbed in quick succession late Thursday by gunmen. Later, a service station in Benton township was reportedly robbed by three men, one wielding a switchblade knife. Loot in the robberies was about $394.

Cass county sheriff's deputies first reported that the Timberline Inn, Indian Lake, Dowagiac, and its five patrons were robbed of about $180 at 11 p.m.

Robbery victims told deputies that two men, each holding a pistol, entered the bar through the front door. While one took money out of the cash register, the other had each patron take out his wallet.

ESCAPE ON FOOT

After both had collected the money, they fled on foot. One was carrying a long-barreled, shiny pistol believed to be a .22 cal., the other a short-barreled, possibly .32 cal. pistol, police said.

One-half hour later, three men, all armed with pistols, entered Letke's Hide-a-way, 6410 River road, Sodus, and went through the same robbery procedure, Berrien county sheriff's Deputy Sgt. John Gillespie reported.

Tavern owner George Letke was ordered to put the money in the cash register into a paper bag, and the five bar patrons were told to put their wallets on the bar.

After they were finished, one of the trio held his gun on the robbery victims while the other two went outside and shot out a tire on each of the six cars parked by the tavern, police said.

Then they fled with about $150.

Because two of the men apparently fit the same description in both robberies, Berrien and Cass county sheriff's deputies are conducting a joint investigation. Police are investigating the possibility that there was a third man in the Timberline Inn robbery driving a get-away car.

The third robbery of the night occurred at Owens Eastern Oil Co. service station, 806 East Napier avenue, Benton township, at about 1 a.m. this morning.

MONEY DEMANDED

Service station attendant Ron Christopher, 19, 1325 Third avenue, Benton Harbor, told township police that three men walked from behind the station. One pulled out a switchblade knife, and demanded money, he said.

Christopher said he gave them $94 from the cash register, then they forced him into the restroom and fled.

Township police are investigating whether the three hold-up men are the same as those in the previous robberies.

Wounded Coloma Girl Recovering

A 13-year-old Coloma girl struck in the face and seriously wounded by an accidental shotgun blast July 9 is convalescing at her home after being released from St. Joseph Memorial hospital recently.

Linda Scheffler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Scheffler, Park road, Coloma, had been listed in serious condition after the mishap. She left the hospital July 23.

Miss Scheffler released a letter to this newspaper expressing "heartfelt thanks to all the many people who showed their concern over me during my stay in the hospital."

She was injured when her mother placed the 12-gauge shotgun on a gun rack. The weapon discharged as her mother turned around, the father said.

Pellets from the gun went through a screen door and traveled about 20 feet to where Miss Scheffler was swinging in a hammock outside the house, sheriff's deputies said at the time. The gun had been brought back to the house after being used to frighten birds away from a cherry orchard on the Scheffler farm.

New Buffalo Annexation Welcomed

Two Companies May Join City

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo city council last night in a special meeting authorized City Attorney Stephen Roumell to prepare a petition for the annexation of the Berry Metal company and the adjoining Chesapeake and Ohio railroad property as soon as the companies indicate they are ready to annex to the city.

The companies are located in the southwest part of New Buffalo township. They have indicated a desire to annex to the city to be eligible for city water and sewer services. The council is now waiting for a written request from the companies. Atty. Roumell told the council last night the township attorney, John Spelman, has informed him the township will oppose the annexation.

In other business, the council passed a resolution to rezone all property from Mechanic street north to the Gallien river and from Berrien street east to the city limits as commercial with the exception of homes on North drive to Willard street. A public hearing on the rezoning will take place at the Aug. 19 regular meeting of the council.

The council authorized Roumell to negotiate a settlement with 25 Sunset Shores beach property owners for the land easements necessary for the sand stockpile needed for the $1½ million small craft refuge harbor. Roumell said a trial jury in the case of the first property owner determined it is necessary for the city to use the land for the stockpile and awarded $3,750 damages to the property owner.

Roumell said he will now negotiate with the other property owners and if no settlement can be reached, the city will file a condemnation suit in each case. He said after the harbor is constructed the stockpile would be necessary to prevent erosion of the beach properties. If the settlements can be reached within the next few months, construction of the harbor would begin next spring. The council also authorized the city treasurer to pay judgments and expenses of the condemnation with money set aside in the budget.

The council approved the redefining of lots on Shore drive in Sunset Shores owned by Peter Kurbulas. The three 100 foot lots will be replotted to four 75-foot lots.

A special assessment district for the Chicago street sewer extension was approved. A public hearing on the sewer extension on Chicago street from Detroit street to Washington street will take place within 30 days.

The council voted to hack Acme disposal company of Niles, the city's trash pick up service, in their complaint against the disposal service division of AMI Metals, Inc., of Michigan City for infringing on Acme's exclusive city trash pick-up rights.

Petitioners Want Civilian Board

DETROIT (AP) — State Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, said Thursday that 1,000 volunteers will seek to collect 50,000 signatures this weekend on petitions calling for a civilian trial board empowered to discipline or fire Detroit policemen.

Young said 20,000 signatures have been collected so far, short of the 34,500 needed to put the trial board proposal on the ballot in November.

Rally On Wall Street Continuing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market surged ahead in active trading early today as it continued the rally that carried it sharply higher Thursday.

The Dow Jones industrial average at 10:30 a.m. was up 8.08 at 823.55.

Gains led losses by better than 500 issues.

A number of large blocks moved in early trading. They include: American Telephone & Telegraph, 30,000 shares at 53, up 1/4; Atlantic Richfield, 10,000 shares at 10 1/2, up 1/4; Tenneco Corp., 23,000 shares at 25 1/2, up 1/4; Standard Oil (N.J.), 11,400 shares at 70 1/4, up 3/4; Xerox, 20,000 shares at 93 1/4, up 1/4; and Computer Sciences, 15,900 shares at 24 1/4, up 1/4.

The market slashed but a sharp gain Thursday, with analysts attributing the rise partly to bargain hunting among issues which had fallen to a price attractive to traders during the market's long decline as well as to Senate approval of an extension of the income tax surcharge for six months.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 11.89 to 815.47. The Associated Press 50-stock average gained 4.4 to 289.8.

Prices generally were higher on the American Stock Exchange.
